FOREWORD

THE launching of this biographical gallery of "BALLARAT DISTRICT CITIZENS AND SPORTS" breaks new ground in the "Who's Who" type of publication. For the democratic range of its personnel I offer no apology. I have assembled together thus compactly "thumb-nail" records of the public and sporting associations of nearly 1,100 personalities of this district of Greater Ballarat.

Ballarat district citizens and "sports" are as progressive as those of any other center. Men and women of both types have individually and collectively helped to build up this picturesque and progressive city and environs. And while thus proving qualities of good citizenship they have enhanced their own prestige in one or other of the realms of art, science, commerce or in manual industry, in healthy honest sport or in religious and philanthropic endeavor, in legislative halls and civic chambers or on more sanguinary fields of battle; in the preservation of life and property or in the healing of the sick and the relief of the indigent and infirm.

I am pleased to be able to add my publication to the historical records of this community, believing it to be a useful compendium of information of public service, family history, etc., of most of the leading local men and women of the time and of the district, many of whom have gone further afield than their native heath in search of fame and fortune. Having regard to the likelihood of the future historians of Ballarat drawing upon this store of information I have endeavoured to be accurate in the compilation of the records.

It should be clearly understood that the records are not auto-biographical. Indeed in many cases I have relied entirely on my own knowledge of men and matters during a journalistic career of nearly 20 years without calling upon the subject concerned for the requisite facts. Comment has been avoided as far as possible, the author preferring to allow facts to speak for themselves, and any semblance of comment is absolutely my own unless where otherwise specified and for which the subject concerned is in no way responsible. The book is not a series of life stories—simply a record of facts, and I am grateful to my many fellow citizens for their consent to the use in the manner shown of their names and associations. Subscription is payment for the book itself and not for an appearance therein.

I trust that "Citizens and Sports"—the first of its kind launched in Ballarat—will breast the tide of popular approval and enjoy a just measure of public appreciation and support, and, finally, that all the subjects concerned will "live as long as they want and never want as long as they live."

M M. McCALLUM

"Rossarden,"

July 31st, 1916

[To his contemporary comrades of the daily press of Ballarat who may desire to draw from its stores, the author cordially dedicates his work with an expression of hope that their efforts to reflect or enlarge upon the virtues of those herein immortalised may be facilitated by a reference to its pages]

The Wiles Cooker

Has revolutionised Methods of Feeding our Troops on the Battlefield

THE WILES COOKER is now exclusively employed by the Commonwealth Government in supplying the material needs of our Soldiers in the Great War cutting out the Field Cookers of other Countries.

NAPOLEON once declared that an Army "Travels on its Stomach" (or words to that effect). The Wiles Cooker is the Soldiers' Friend!

THE WILES COOKER is being adapted for use by Squatters, Farmers and Dairyman. Shearers and Harvest Workers fed in quick time, Steam in a few moments. For all Dairy, Homestead and Power Purposes. Soldiers "swear by it" and so do all Farm Workers.

WONDERFUL SAVING of time trouble and temper, and of fuel for those who install the Wiles Cooker on Farm or Station.
